"When we left the country road and entered Glenlaurel's long, curvy drive, something came over the both of us — a sigh, a release, a feeling of ease. In the distance, framed by the most enchanting woods, the old world Manor House awaited our arrival--called us to rest"

Accommodations

Our wonderfully appointed rooms, suites, crofts, and cottages offer the finest amenities and are a favorite for both leisure and business guests. Each is named for prominent clans and personalities in Scottish History. We provide an extra level of comfort with refined decor and spaciousness for the sophisticated traveler who wants the best.

The Manor House

The elegant, old-world manor house is the heart and soul of the Glenlaural Estate and was the original house of the Laird.

The cherry facade of stone and stucco gives way to the fabled carved mantle in the parlor, three dining rooms, the Loch Ness Pub, the Piper's

Cove, the Waif's Haven kitchen, two guest rooms, two guest suites, and overlooks the Camusfearna Gorge, the crown jewel of Glenlaural.

The Carriage House

The Carriage House Reception area welcomes weary travelers to a place of rest. Browse the gift gallery and wedding display. The Carriage House includes two guest rooms. Upstairs, the Robertson Garret has a private bath, kitchenette, and a sitting area. Downstairs, the Douglas Highlander has a two-person whirlpool tub, kitchenette, large deck, and gas log fireplace.

CROFTS

The four east crofts (intimate cottages) are a five-minute walk to/from the Manor House. Each croft has parking near the front door, a kitchenette, living room, queen bed, see through gas log fireplace, screened porch, and hot tub on a private deck overlooking Camusfearna Gorge.

The three west crofts are tucked into the edge of the Hamlet. They are about a ten minute walk to/from the Manor House and also accessible by car. Each croft contains one spacious room with queen bed, gas log fireplace, two fireside easy chairs, and hot tub on a private deck overlooking Bannock Burn Ravine.

COTTAGES

The pinnacle lodging experience at Glenlaural is a stay in one of the cottages in the Hamlet. These six delightful little wooded hideaways are a ten-minute walk to/from the Manor House, and are also accessible by car. Each cottage starts with a grand living room window to the woods, stone fireplace with gas logs and carved mantle, ample room to lounge fireside, and a kitchenette. The bath offers room for two in the shower, vanity, and walk-in closet. The bedroom has a king sized sleigh bed, gas log stove, entertainment center for movie viewing and double French doors.

The private deck has a luxury hot tub with speakers from your entertainment center for listening to CDs while you soak. Each cottage overlooks its own private garden and either the Camusfearna Gorge or the Bannock Burn Ravine.

DINING & AMENITIES

The dining experience is renowned for its gourmet cuisine with a Scottish flair. Our dinner menu is sure to delight lads and lassies alike. You'll savor either six or seven delectable courses served at a candlelit table-for-two, while you enjoy Scottish music and poetry readings to create a romantic dining experience that's unique in all the Midwest.

All guests enjoy a complimentary full breakfast. Choose to dine in-room or in a wooded hideaway with a deluxe continental breakfast, a gourmet picnic lunch, or a romantic in-room dinner.

All rooms include private bath, luxurious robes, refrigerator, AC, phone with voice mail, CD player and more. Most rooms include private deck, gas log fireplace, whirlpool or hot tub, kitchenette, entertainment center and secret garden.
